Gymnastics Australia receive Australian Government funding for Sports Development in Fiji

On the International Day of Sport for Peace and Development, Gymnastics Australia is thrilled to announce the receipt of a Pacific Sports Partnerships (PSP) Innovation Fund grant. This new Australian Government initiative supports innovation and effective linkages through sport between Australia and the Pacific.

The project titled 'AeroGym Fiji' will take Aerobic Gymnastics to villages and schools throughout Fiji, particularly encouraging women across multiple generations to participate in physical activity using the vehicle of gymnastics. A pathway to regional and national competition will be offered, with the ultimate reward being a Gymnastics Australia sanctioned training and performance tour to Australia for the AeroGym Fiji National Team Champions.

AeroGym Fiji aims to encourage people of all abilities to participate in regular physical activity, thus decreasing non-communicable disease (NCD) risk factors. It is structured to remove barriers for women and people with disabilities from participating in sport, as well as provide leadership opportunities.
